Good morning everyone,

The first thing I want to do today is to thank all of you who were involved in making the video with that lovely message for all of the staff. It has been shared with everyone here and we are all very grateful, it was so lovely to see all of you – thank you!

Things are very busy at the moment as we work on plans to try and get you all back into school safely and as soon as possible. However, I still have time to read and respond to emails that I receive from you so please keep sending your answers to my challenges and also anything else that you think I would be interested in seeing.

Take care everyone, see you soon.

Mr Dyson's Daily Challenge.

Today is a cryptic challenge and will be quite tricky. You may need a little help from your parents on this one if they have time. I know many of you love football so it is based on Football teams that are in the English or Scottish football league. Your challenge is to name the team that is described in the cryptic clue. I have given you three examples to show you how it works. Your job is to find the other 10:

Examples:

1. Not East Bacon – West Ham
2. Glass Mansion – Crystal Palace
3. Not the King of the North – Queen of the South

Now it's your turn. Good luck!

1. A very expensive car in front of a Spanish house
2. Males together
3. The bottom of a ship
4. One of the 3 R's – you do this in school every day
5. The opposite of Dull – Off
6. My mum is feeling better
7. A type of meat and the and you might swim in this
8. Latest Fort
9. Always – 100 (Mr Fowler had better get that one right!)
10. A type of haircut.
